GLOBAL INVESTOR PROFILE

I would rather advise you out of the wrong property than into it.

Why Nexus Elite Properties exists — and how it works for you.

Dear Investor,

I came to the UAE in 2001. This country gave me my career, my home and, in 2022, a ten-year Golden Visa as an investor — so when I guide a client through that same journey, I am describing a road I have travelled myself.

I founded Nexus Elite Properties because international investors deserve better than a sales pitch. Dubai's market is deep, fast-moving and well regulated — but from London, Mumbai or Riyadh it can be hard to tell a genuine opportunity from a well-marketed one.

My role is to close that gap: with current data, honest comparison across developers, full disclosure of costs, and guidance that continues years after the title deed is issued.

I look forward to understanding your goals.

Shylesh Raj N.K.

Founder & CEO
Nexus Elite Properties LLC, Dubai

"The right property is the one whose price, location and paperwork still make sense five years after handover."

— SHYLESH RAJ N.K.

Three decades of experience. One market mastered.

A career built across India, Singapore and the UAE — stated precisely, and verifiable.

Shylesh Raj N.K. has lived and worked in the UAE for more than 25 years, within a professional career of over three decades spanning India, Singapore and the Emirates. That history matters practically: he has watched Dubai's communities, regulations and market cycles evolve first-hand — and he understands the concerns of an investor buying from abroad, because most of his clients do exactly that.

As Founder and CEO of Nexus Elite Properties LLC, a Dubai Land Department-licensed brokerage, Shylesh advises private clients across off-plan, ready, secondary, luxury and waterfront property, with particular depth in Golden Visa-eligible investment. He holds the UAE 10-year Golden Visa himself and has guided international clients through remote purchases end to end.

EARLY CAREER

Professional foundations across India, Singapore and the UAE — IT, finance and client service.

LATE 2001 — UAE

Arrives in Sharjah; 25 years of living and working through the UAE's full market cycles.

2022 — GOLDEN VISA

Granted the UAE 10-year Golden Visa in the investor and entrepreneur category.

Advisory coverage

Verify, don't take our word

Broker registration No. 77789 can be independently verified on the Dubai Land Department's official broker register (Dubai REST app / dubailand.gov.ae). We encourage every client to check.

An advisory built for investors, not transactions.

Independent. Licensed. Accountable long after handover.

Nexus Elite Properties LLC is a boutique, Dubai-based property advisory licensed by the Dubai Land Department. We serve a deliberately limited number of private clients, advising across Dubai — with coverage of Abu Dhabi, Sharjah, Ras Al Khaimah and Umm Al Quwain — in off-plan, ready, secondary, luxury, waterfront and branded residences. We are not a developer's sales desk, and we are not a listings portal: every recommendation is drawn from the whole market and compared across developers before it reaches you.

Not a developer's sales desk

Shortlists are built around your objectives, budget, risk profile and holding period — never around inventory anyone needs to move. We compare every shortlist across at least three developers.

Not a volume brokerage

A limited client book means the founder himself leads discovery, strategy, negotiation support and the key transaction decisions — with a named point of contact throughout.

Not a listings portal

You receive a reasoned shortlist with documented assumptions, costs and trade-offs — not hundreds of undifferentiated links.

Not an unregulated introducer

A Dubai Land Department-licensed brokerage with a RERA-registered broker, operating inside Dubai's regulatory framework, including escrow-protected off-plan sales.

How we are paid, plainly. On new developer launches our fee is paid by the developer — you pay us nothing. On secondary-market purchases, fees are agreed transparently in writing before we begin. In both cases, the advice is the same.

Discretion, always

Client identities, holdings and conversations are never disclosed. Documents are handled through secure channels, and non-disclosure agreements are available on request.

Credentials matter when they become better decisions.

What each credential does for you, the investor.

25+ years in the UAE — cycle-tested judgement

He has seen Dubai's corrections as well as its records. That means honest advice on entry price, location maturity and realistic holding periods — not launch-day enthusiasm.

RERA-registered broker (BRN 77789) — regulated and verifiable

A clearly identifiable credential within Dubai's property framework, checkable on the DLD's official register in under a minute.

Golden Visa holder — first-hand residency experience

He has completed the investor-residency process himself, so requirements, sequencing and realistic timelines come from lived experience — while final approval always rests with the authorities.

Whole-of-market access — 30+ developer partnerships

Registered channel partnerships with more than 30 leading developers — including Emaar, Sobha, Nakheel, Meraas, DAMAC, Ellington, Danube and Binghatti — mean recommendations are never restricted to one brand or one launch.

International career — he speaks investor, not broker

Three decades across India, Singapore and the UAE make cross-border concerns — currency, documentation, family needs, exit planning — familiar territory, not special requests.

Data-led, technology-enabled advisory

Dated, sourced market statistics, ROI and payment-plan comparisons, and digital tools — so you can test every recommendation against numbers, not adjectives.

Direct founder access, before and after purchase

You work with Shylesh — through discovery, negotiation, registration, handover, leasing and eventual resale. The relationship does not end at the title deed.

A city built to be global.

Facts, not adjectives — every figure dated and sourced.

Dubai sits within an eight-hour flight of most of the world's population, at the meeting point of Europe, Asia and Africa. It is home to more than four million residents from some 200 nationalities, and hosts one of the region's most diversified economies — trade, logistics, finance, tourism and technology. The city pairs scale with order: property ownership is title-registered and regulated, and the dirham has been pegged to the US dollar for nearly three decades. For a global investor, Dubai offers something rare — an emerging-market growth rate inside a developed-market framework.

Investor perspective

Population, tourism, aviation and capital flows are demand drivers — but any individual property's performance still depends on micro-location, entry price, surrounding supply and holding period.

Connected to everywhere that matters.

The physical and social infrastructure beneath long-term property demand.

Dubai International (DXB) has been the world's busiest international airport since 2014, serving 291 destinations across 110 countries. The emirate has approved an AED 128 billion expansion of Al Maktoum International, designed for an eventual capacity of 260 million passengers a year — the largest in the world when complete.

On the ground, the driverless Metro, an expanding road network and Jebel Ali — the region's largest port — connect residents and trade. Daily life is served by internationally accredited hospitals, more than 200 private schools teaching 17+ curricula, and the DIFC financial centre that anchors the region's banking and wealth-management industry.

A necessary caution

Infrastructure of this scale supports population growth and rental demand over time. It does not, by itself, guarantee price appreciation for any individual property — location and entry price still decide outcomes.

A city that publishes its plans decades ahead.

The D33 Economic Agenda and the Dubai 2040 Urban Master Plan — targets, clearly separated from results.

D33 DUBAI ECONOMIC AGENDA · LAUNCHED JAN 2023 Official targets to 2033: double the size of Dubai's economy and place the city among the world's top three to live, invest and work in. Foreign-trade target AED 25.6T FDI target over the decade AED 650bn Digital-economy contribution AED 100bn / yr Early indicator No. 1 greenfield-FDI city, 5 yrs	Dubai 2040 URBAN MASTER PLAN · ANNOUNCED MAR 2021 The spatial plan for that growth: where population, transit, amenity and green space are intended to concentrate. Projected population by 2040 5.8M Principal urban centres 5 Residents within 800m of mass transit 55% Public beaches +400% Green & recreational space Doubled · "20-minute city"

For property investors, these plans matter as a demand framework — they signal where infrastructure, population and amenity are intended to concentrate over two decades. Official targets are ambitions, not achievements; we track delivery, not announcements, when advising on location.

Investor implication	Strategic plans can support long-term demand, but they do not guarantee returns. Asset selection and entry discipline remain decisive.

Ten evidence-based reasons — stated carefully.

Each reason carries a sourced fact and a balanced implication. Reasons 1–5.

Strategic global location

Dubai operates in the overlap of European, Asian and African time zones, with 291 destinations served non-stop from DXB (Dubai Airports, Feb 2026).

Implication: liquidity is supported by a global buyer and tenant pool — not a single domestic market.

A diversified economy

UAE GDP grew 6.2% in 2025, with non-oil activity ≈79% of output (FCSC, May 2026); Dubai's economy is led by trade, finance, tourism and real estate.

Implication: property demand is tied to a broad economy — though it remains cyclical.

Sustained population growth

Dubai passed four million residents in September 2025, adding roughly 200,000 people in a year — its fastest growth on record (Dubai Statistics Centre).

Implication: structural rental demand, partially offset by a large construction pipeline.

A magnet for global business

The world's No. 1 city for greenfield FDI five years running — 1,253 projects announced in 2025 (Dubai FDI Monitor / fDi Markets, Jun 2026).

Implication: corporate relocation feeds premium leasing demand.

A regulated, transparent framework

RERA (est. 2007) regulates brokers and projects; off-plan payments sit in DLD-supervised escrow; every title is digitally registered.

Implication: strong buyer protections — which still do not substitute for project-level due diligence.

Income, stability and residency.

Reasons 6–10 — ending where an honest case should: with balance.

Rental income potential

Gross yields in mid-2026 averaged about 6.7% citywide — apartments typically 5.5–7% (studios higher), villas 4–5% — before service charges and costs (Engel & Völkers ME, May 2026; Global Property Guide, Q2 2026).

Implication: competitive income by global standards; never guaranteed, and net figures run lower.

Long-term urban planning

D33 and the 2040 Master Plan publish where infrastructure and population will concentrate decades ahead (see page 9).

Implication: a rare planning horizon for location selection.

Quality of life

The UAE ranked the world's safest country in Numbeo's 2026 index; Dubai combines international schooling, accredited healthcare and hospitality infrastructure serving 19.59 million visitors (DET, Feb 2026).

Implication: end-user demand — not only investors — underpins the market.

Currency stability

The dirham has been pegged to the US dollar at 3.6725 since 1997 (Central Bank of the UAE).

Implication: USD-linked pricing removes local-currency risk for dollar-based investors; non-USD investors still carry home-currency exposure.

Residency pathways

Property of AED 2 million or more can qualify the owner for the UAE's 10-year Golden Visa — consolidated on pages 14–15 (DLD, accessed Jul 2026).

Implication: a residency option layered onto an investment — subject to rules that can change.

A balanced note

Dubai remains a cyclical market. Prices fell during 2009–2011 and 2015–2019 before the current expansion. Entry price, location and holding power matter more than any single market statistic.

The Dubai market in numbers.

A record 2025; a strong but normalising 2026. Scale and participation — not guaranteed future performance.

How to use these figures

Use market-wide data as context only. A property decision should still be tested against comparable pricing, future supply, service charges, construction risk and exit depth. Updated data accompanies every consultation.

Which Dubai is right for your capital?

Six pathways, honestly compared — no category is universally suitable.

Off-plan

Suits: investors comfortable with a 2–4 year horizon and staged payments.

Key risks: delivery timing, community maturity, resale competition at handover.

Ask: Is the project escrow-registered? What is the developer's delivery record?

Ready property

Suits: income-focused buyers and Golden Visa timelines — immediate title, immediate rent.

Key risks: paying peak pricing in mature areas; building condition.

Ask: What are the actual service charges and current rents?

Secondary market

Suits: value-oriented buyers negotiating with private sellers, with good advice.

Key risks: condition, title encumbrances.

Ask: Why is the seller selling?

Luxury & waterfront

Suits: wealth preservation, lifestyle use, prime scarcity — Palm Jumeirah, Emirates Hills, Jumeirah Bay.

Key risks: thinner liquidity; wider price swings at the top.

Ask: What is genuinely scarce here?

Branded residences

Suits: lock-and-leave owners valuing hospitality-grade service and brand association.

Key risks: premium pricing; higher service charges.

Ask: What exactly does the brand fee buy?

Villas & townhouses

Suits: long holds and relocation buyers; villas led 2025 price growth at +14.83% (official index, May 2026).

Key risks: larger tickets; lower yields (≈4–5%).

Ask: School run, commute, community pipeline?

No category is universally "best". The right pathway follows from your objective, horizon, liquidity needs and risk tolerance — which is where a consultation begins.

Ten years of residency, through property.

The rules as they stand at July 2026 — consolidated here, and repeated nowhere else in this guide.

MINIMUM QUALIFYING VALUE

AED 2M

DLD-certified property value, in a designated freehold area

10-year renewable residence

while qualifying ownership is maintained; subject to authority approval.

No minimum stay

the visa remains valid even if you live outside the UAE for more than six months.

No local sponsor

live, work and study in the UAE independently.

ELIGIBILITY, IN CURRENT PRACTICE

One property — or several combined

Registered to the same owner, with a total DLD-certified value of AED 2 million or more.

Off-plan qualifies

When registered with DLD (Oqood) from an approved developer — under current policy, eligibility rests on certified value, not the amount already paid.

Mortgaged property qualifies

With a no-objection letter from the financing bank; no minimum paid-equity amount under current DLD practice.

Family sponsorship

Spouse and children (sons under 25; unmarried daughters of any age; children of determination without age limit), with provisions for parents and household staff.

Co-ownership: confirmed case-by-case

Treatment of spouses and co-owners is assessed under prevailing GDRFA rules, which have been revised during 2026 — we confirm your position in writing before you commit.

First-hand knowledge

Shylesh holds this visa himself and coordinates the process for clients end to end. Ask for our current eligibility check — a 10-minute review of your specific case.

The process, without surprises.

Five steps, known costs, realistic timing — through the unified DLD–GDRFA platform.

Confirm eligibility
Title deed(s) or Oqood reviewed; DLD-certified value confirmed; bank NOC obtained if mortgaged.

Prepare documents
Passport, title deed(s), photograph, health insurance; existing Emirates ID / residency if applicable.

Apply
Through the DLD's dedicated channels — the "Cube" at Al Manara or Dubai World Trade Centre, or approved registration trustees — now unified with GDRFA's platform. Personal attendance is required at one stage.

Medical & Emirates ID
Standard medical fitness test and biometrics.
- 5

Issuance
Residency issued; family applications follow as dependants. Nexus Elite coordinates every step; PRO and typing-centre charges are itemised at cost.

COSTS & TIMING · JULY 2026

Government fees, main applicant ≈ AED 9,885

Per dependant ≈ AED 5,775

DLD processing standard 7–10 working days

Realistic end-to-end incl. medical & EID 3–6 weeks

A separate 2-year property investor residence also exists: under rules updated in 2026, a sole owner may apply regardless of property value (co-owners: AED 400,000 share each). Ask which route fits your plans.

IMPORTANT

Eligibility, residency duration, fees and documentation requirements are subject to current UAE and Dubai regulations and final approval by the relevant authorities. Investors should verify the applicable rules at the time of application. Sources: DLD Golden Visa (Investor) service page; u.ae — accessed 24 July 2026. Rules changed materially in 2024 and again in February–April 2026.
